Winter League Trap Rules

2023 Edition

League Scoring:

- 1) Scoring will be based on two rounds of 25 birds each
  - The first round will be shot from the 16-yard line
  - The second round will be shot from the shooter's current league average, or if an average has not yet been established, then the shooter will use their prior year Winter League average. If the shooter did not shoot the Winter League in the prior year then the shooter will shoot from the league start-up yardage of 22 yards
  - The scores entered for week one will be used to determine the shooter's average
    - 16-yard scores, round one will be shot on odd numbered fields and the handicap scores, round two, will be shot on the even numbered fields
    - League shoots will rotate field pairs from week to week
    - No scores will be accepted if shot on the practice field unless the practice field is used as a replacement field due to equipment failure
- 2) An 80% team handicap per round will be used;
  - Teams will be sorted by total points then by team total birds
  - Teams are paired together to determine who shoots against whom. The team with the most points shoots against the team with the next highest points making up the first team pairings. Then the next team pairing is based on the next set of available teams
  - Calculating the handicap and points won for week one; teams are sorted by total birds shot for week one to determine the order for pairing the teams. Once paired, handicap and points are then calculated based on these scores
- 3) A shooter's average will include both shot and non-shot birds (league's or shooter's average minus two for absent score(s) in their total bird count and average calculation)
- 4) All shooters will shoot the handicap round, round two, from their established shooting average with the following exceptions:
  - The minimum shooting yardage will be 18 yards
  - If the shooter does not have an established average then they will use the league start-up average
  - There is a maximum of a two-yard separation between any adjacent shooter
    - If a shooter's average does not meet the two-yard separation they may choose to either shoot from the yardage line which upholds the maximum separation or they can choose to "walk" to and from their handicap yardage line after and before the adjacent shooters shoot
- 5) A five-point system will be used:
  - 2 points awarded to round one
  - 2 points awarded to round two
  - 1 point awarded for total
  - In case of a tie in any or all of the above categories, the point value for that category will be equally shared between the two teams for each of the scores which were tied
- 6) The Bank Shoot:
  - Bank shoot scores are held in reserve for the shooter(s) in the event that they are absent or at their discretion during the league
  - Bank shoot scores are used only once and for the shooter's first absence scores, they are automatically entered for the missing score
  - Bank shoots do not have to be used if all ten weeks are shot
  - The first round will be shot from the 16-yard line
  - The second round will be shot from the shooter's prior year Winter League average. If the shooter did not shoot the Winter League in the prior year then the shooter will shoot from the league start-up yardage at the 22-yard line
  - There are no emergency shoots for the league
- 7) If a shooter is absent and does not have a bank shoot score or did not shoot ahead, they will receive their league average minus two birds per round for the absent scores. In the event that the shooter does not have an established average, week number one, they will receive the league's average (actual birds shot) minus two birds per round for the absent scores and this league average will become their established average.
